STRIKE VOTE

Teachers, aides, secretaries and clerical staffs of the Jefferson Union High School District Tuesday morning voted to strike, and immediately began setting up picket lines at the district's six schools.

The total strike vote at the American Federation of Teachers Local 1481 emergency meeting at Serramonte High School was 216 for, 135 against, or 61.5 percent. The teacher vote was 165 for, 110 against, or 60 percent, and the Business and Instructional Support Services unit was 51 for, 25 against, or 68 percent.

Pickets appeared immediately after the meeting at the entrance to Serramonte, and were to follow at Jefferson, Westmoor, Terra Nova, Oceana and Thornton high schools and at the district administration office in the Westlake Shopping Center in Daly City.

Picketing also was scheduled to begin at the district bus yard at 5:30 a.m. Wednesday, and at 6 at the schools.

A spokesman at the district office said Tuesday that schools would open as usual today, with substitute teachers in the classrooms.

About three-fourths of the union local's employees cast ballots after the negotiating team explained the status of negotiations, following three weeks and many speakers who had spoken for and against a strike, the majority for.

A third unit, the per diem substitute teachers, cast no ballots.

AFT president Marcy Ballard told the group that negotiations have stalled and that despite an offer made and later rescinded by the district during long weekend bargaining sessions, "There is no clean offer on the table."

By "clean" as Mrs. Ballard and local vice president Bill Curran explained, the district has offered to pay increased salaries, but at the cost of job cuts.

The union has maintained that the district has the money to pay the 10.2 percent salary increase it is asking and to re-hire the teachers and aides it has dismissed. As yet 18 of these have not been re-hired, a point the union has made a major bargaining point.

Joan Roselli, a temporary teacher of the educationally-handicapped at Serramonte, drew loud applause when she said "The federal government mandated my job, but I don't want to occupy it over the bodies of my comrades... We've had 2.6 percent in salary increases over the past three years."

The teachers and staff by their vote also rejected several suggestions for alternatives to a strike, such as sick-outs, some saying that going to work at all would weaken the union position and a satisfactory contract never would be agreed to by the district.

Some asked for binding arbitration, a point the union has been seeking since before its 13-day strike of last September, and a three-year contract, so the local doesn't have to go through this every fall.

The district has claimed it doesn't have the money to pay the employees what they ask and still hire back all those dismissed.

With the experience of last year's strike behind them, some district students also may be seeking an end to the strike.

Gina Hom, a Serramonte sophomore, said after the strike vote Tuesday "We'd like to hear both sides of the story. It's our education that suffers. With the substitutes last year, we sat in class and chatted."

District Superintendent Floyd Gonella denied Tuesday that he told union officials the district approved of setting up a neutral three-member panel that would make a recommendation on negotiations which would be binding to both sides.

The district would never agree to form a panel under those terms, he said, disputing a report by union spokesman Tom Fitzpatrick.

"I've said a lot of things my day," Gonella said, but he added he would never make such an offer to the union. "That is a direct lie."

Fitzpatrick told this newspaper Monday that Gonella had agreed to form a panel which would make a binding decision, but then later changed his mind.

School trustees have said they agree a panel could be set up, but they will not agree that the panel's recommendation should be one they will be forced to comply with.

Borba abstains many times on important SSF council votes

By HEIDI VAN ZANT

Councilman William Borba has abstained from voting on several of the most controversial and difficult decisions which have been before the South San Francisco City Council in the past 20 months.

A check of the City Council minutes from January 1978 to the present shows Borba has refrained from voting on major issues as well as relatively minor ones.

He abstained from deciding how the Police Department and Fire Department should be reorganized, what the goals of a redevelopment agency for the east side of the city should be and whether or not the city should proceed with revitalizing downtown South San Francisco.

The record also shows an inconsistency in his voting pattern regarding the controversial downtown revitalization project, the target of legal action taken by dissenting Grand Avenue merchants.

In the past 20 months, the minutes show he has voted in favor of proceeding with the project four times, has voted against special funding for it once and abstained twice.

Two months after abstaining on a vote to call for bids on revitalization, he made a motion to reject all bids. That motion "died" when no other council member would second it.

The other four council members also have abstained at least once since January 1978. Those abstentions generally were related to a financial or personal conflict of interest, they said.

When Borba was shown the list of his abstenstions recently, he offered a detailed explanation for almost every one. In several instances, he explained, he did not vote "aye" or "nay" because he did not have enough information to make the decision.

In other cases, he said he abstained because he was not comfortable voting one way or the other.

"To abstain is like a no, too," he said. Another time he said he abstained because, "This way I leave it open."

Borba also explained he has yet to take a position on downtown revitalization, that he is "still open-minded on that one," and will soon decide whether he favors it.

"I never voted in favor of Grand Avenue, one way or the other," Borba said, even though he was shown that the minutes reflect he has voted in favor of forming an assessment district to help finance the project and that he approved the preliminary design plans.

He said former City Clerk Margaret Pettigrew made a mistake in the minutes when she said the council unanimously approved a resolution Jan. 3 to form a downtown revitalization assessment district.

Mrs. Pettigrew, when told of Borba's statement, said when she does not hear anyone vote against the motion or abstain, "I would take it that everybody voted yes."

City Manager Walt Birkelo was surprised to hear a councilman was challenging the minutes at this time.

"The time to correct those are when the minutes are up for review," he said.

When asked if he had noticed if any council member had a pattern of frequently abstaining, the city manager chuckled and replied: "Sure I've noticed it but I'm not going to be quoted on it."

In addition to not voting on individual issues, the record shows Borba was careful to note at the start of every City Council meeting that he would abstain from voting on paying bills for businesses he does work for.

The councilman, who owns Clearlite Trophy and Borba Manufacturing Inc. (a tool and die shop), offered that many of his abstentions are made because he does business with the involved firm and therefore has a financial conflict of interest.

After looking over his voting record as it relates to abstentions, Borba, who is up for re-election in April, said he stands behind his votes.

"I'm comfortable with it," he added, noting later, "If I feel like abstaining, I'm going to abstain. A lot of times we get things at the last minute."

He complained that Mayor Terry Mirri, who has chaired the meetings for the past five months, does not give him a chance to explain his abstentions. Borba was the mayor for the previous 12 months.

"You know how the mayor is," Borba said. "He never gives you the time of day to explain."

Mirri responded that if Borba did not publicly offer a reason for his abstentions, then it was because he chose not to.

"He has never been cut off from explaining any abstention," he said.

Borba was not the only one queried about his abstention record. The other four council members also were asked why they had abstained on occasions.

Mirri, who has abstained on a handful of issues in the past 20 months, said, "I don't think abstentions should be made unless it's for a very clear-cut reason."

He said in one case (involving a contract amendment for engineering services at the wastewater treatment plant) he abstained because he may not have heard the full council discussion on the matter.

In two other matters Mirri said he did not vote because he has family memebers living in an area that would have been affected by the vote and was concerned about a possible conflict of interest.

On two other occasions, he abstained from participating in votes related to downtown revitalization, yet in votes taken prior to and after those abstentions, he did vote on related issues.

He described himself as having been "in a state of flux" in mid-1978 because he owns a home near the revitalization area and was unclear if there was a conflict.

(He has since volunteered to abstain on all votes regarding revitalization, even though he and City Attorney John Noonan have said there is no conflict of interest.)

The last time he abstained, May 23, Mirri said he did so because he wanted more information on a resolution to apply for a loan which would designate South San Francisco a concentrated rehabilitation area.

Mirri called it "ridiculous" for a council member to abstain on an issue because he or she felt uncomfortable taking a position.

If that is the case, "then he shouldn't be on the council. That's our obligation — to make tough decisions," Mirri said.

When asked if he had noticed that Councilman Borba frequently abstained, Mirri replied: "The record speaks for itself."

Vice Mayor Ron Acosta abstained three times earlier this year when the council considered a re-zoning request for 276 Country Club Drive. He said he did not vote because he rents a home at that address.

He said he has noticed that someone on the council frequently abstains, and this bothers him.

"I questioned it in my mind," he said. "They're there to make a decision."

Councilman Emanuele Damonte, who has abstained once in the past 20 months, said he did because it was his cousin who was making an appeal to the council.

He shies away from abstentions because, "I want to vote on everything — that's why I'm there."

Noting that he has not paid much attention to how often the other members abstain, Damonte declined to comment on whether he thinks Borba abstains too frequently.

Councilwoman Roberta Teglia also did not want to comment on Borba's record specifically, saying the council is so close to the situation that it cannot observe itself.

She has abstained once since she took office last year, when she did not participate in a vote regarding the fate of Magnolia Center. Mrs. Teglia said she owns a home almost next door to the center and therefore did not feel she should decide what happens to the building.

Mrs. Teglia disagrees with the practice of abstaining not because of a conflict of interest, but because the council member is reluctant to make a decision.

"You are elected to vote," she said. "You don't take an abstention because you're uncomfortable."

He explains his reasons for not voting—there are many

Following is a partial record of Councilman William Borba's abstentions for the past 20 months and his explanations for those abstentions.

• Jan. 4, 1978 — Decision to bring the Oyster Point Marina expansion plan to the advisory committee.

"I didn't have enough information."

• Feb. 1, 1978 — Determination of unpaid assessments and providing for issuance of bonds on Gellert Boulevard extension.

"I didn't favor it." Did not vote no because "I didn't believe there was proper information."

• Feb. 1, 1978 — Acceptance of 1977-78 street resurfacing program as complete.

He noted at the meeting that he does business with the company who performed the work.

• March 1, 1978 — Resolution to sign an agreement for the lease of 409 Grand Ave. Record shows Borba did participate in the discussion, but did not vote.

"I wonder if that came up all of a sudden," he said recently, noting he could not remember the vote.

• March 15, 1978 — Acceptance of deed of easement for Gellert Boulevard.

"Another quickie deal."

• March 15, 1978 — Contract award for wastewater treatment plant.

He does business with Tillo Co. and abstained on the vote on the advice of the city attorney.

• June 12, 1978 — Recommendation that operation at Ox Mountain sanitary landfill remain in private ownership.

Borba's wife's cousin is a part-owner of the company. Borba declined to give this newspaper the name of the cousin.

• July 7, 1978 — Reduction in city's contribution to the South San Francisco Chamber of Commerce.

He is past member of the board of directors and does business with the chamber, therefore he felt there could be a conflict of interest.

• Aug. 14, 1978 — Police Department reorganization plan. Records show he "cautioned that the adoption of this concept might be a threat to the equity of parity which now exists among city departments."

"I wasn't comfortable with it," he said recently to explain his abstention. "To abstain is like a no, too."

• Aug. 15, 1978 — Adoption of preliminary goals relating to a proposed redevelopment agency.

"There was not enough information presented and I do not know if a redevelopment agency should be started."

• Aug. 15, 1978 — Approval of plan for federal Housing and Community Development Act funds. Record states: "Lengthy discussion followed during which time Mayor Borba expressed his concerns about the wording 'redelvelopment' and the participation in numerous grants."

Borba abstained, he said, because, "Certain things I don't quite understand on it."

• Dec. 20, 1978 — Fire Department reorganization plan. Borba voted against the present plan and an alternative. On third vote, he abstained and the vote deadlocked.

"I was against filling the position of assistant chief," he said, adding he wanted the deadlock.

• April 18, 1979 — Downtown revitalization protest hearing with adoption of the engineer's report, an overruling of protests and direction to record the assessment district notices.

"I had no blueprints before me," he said, adding later, "I wasn't going to get myself involved in the discussion."

• May 16, 1979 — Borba moved that a field trip be taken to Classic Van before voting on the appeal of a planning commission decision to revoke the use permit. There was no second to his motion. He then abstained on vote to revoke the permit.

He "wasn't comfortable" voting to revoke the permit.

• May 16, 1979 — Call for bids on downtown revitalizaion and on bonds.

"This way here, I leave it open."

• June 6, 1979 — Vote to allocate money for project design on Sign Hill. A series of votes were taken and Borba participated in most of the votes but abstained on one of them.

"There was a reason for it," but he could not recall what it was.

Borba was offered a copy of the list of the council's abstention record since January, 1978, but he declined to take one.

Attempted assault charged in arrest

A South San Francisco police officer interrupted a suspected rape early Saturday morning when he heard a woman's screams coming from a car parked behind a restaurant on Old Mission Road.

Officer Roy Varni reported that when he drove into the parking lot of the Carriage House Restaurant he found two men and the screaming woman in a parked car.

Arrested on charges of assault with intent commit rape and false imprisonment of the 34-year-old woman was Joseph Francisco Quirarte, 24, of 412 Commercial Ave., apartment D.

Police said no charges against the other man were filed.

Aftermath of suicide attempt proves nightmare

By JOHN HORGAN

Andrew Gill had been depressed for some time. Drinking heavily, he was worried about being laid off from his San Francisco longshoreman's job. During Christmas week in 1975, he went into the garage of his San Mateo home and tried to asphyxiate himself by sitting in his car with the motor running.

That suicide attempt failed, however.

A week later, on the morning of Jan. 2, 1976, Gill tried to kill himself once more, this time by hanging himself from some timbers behind the garage. Gill almost succeeded. But a friend who normally went to San Francisco with Gill each morning found him dangling from the rope and brought him down. It was 5:40 a.m.

The police were called. Resuscitation was attempted. Gill was taken to Mills Memorial Hospital in San Mateo. Eventually, Gill's life was saved. But he had permanently damaged himself in the hanging incident. He had cut off the oxygen supply to his brain for perhaps five minutes. The result: extensive brain damage.

Gill was 59 at the time.

Since then, Gill has been unable to care for himself. His condition has deteriorated to the point where he requires 24-hour nursing help. Frances Gill, married to her husband for 37 years, says the aftermath of the 1976 hanging has been a nightmare for her.

For a time, she tried to care for her husband in their San Mateo home. But that didn't work out. He was too much for her. He was placed in a nursing home and that was a failure. On more than one occasion, he has been cared for at the Veterans' Administration Hospital in Menlo Park. Gill, at least for now, is at that South County facility.

But he probably won't remain there. The VA is looking for an appropriate nursing home for Gill, somewhere in California. Mrs. Gill wants the situation resolved once and for all so that her husband and the family can finally find some peace more than three years after the suicide attempt.

That tragic event has colored everything for Mrs. Gill.

The Gill case is probably not unique. There may be more than 1,000 suicide attempts each year here in San Mateo County, according to Charlotte Ross, executive director of the Suicide Prevention and Crisis Center in Burlingame. Of those attempts, between 120 and 130 are successful, she says. The rest are abortive. A few, like Andrew Gill's, have repercussions that might be worse than suicide itself.

What makes the Gill case atypical is the severity of the damage caused in the suicide effort.

Ms. Ross says there is virtually no literature on this subject. Says she, "This is a relatively new field."

Additionally, because suicide affects the institutional approach to a patient, problems can arise for people like Andrew Gill.

After being treated for three days at Mills, Gill was transferred to Kaiser Hospital in Redwood City. As a longshoreman, Gill had extensive insurance through Kaiser. While at the hospital, he reportedly tried to kill himself again.

In part because of his suicidal history, Gill's case was initially looked upon as being psychiatric in nature. But, say Mrs. Gill and doctors familiar with the case, Gill was also seriously neurologically impaired.

Gill was kept at Kaiser for two weeks.

Since then, Kaiser has treated him for routine medical needs. It has been Kaiser's view that Gill's condition is not covered in his longshoreman's policy. However, the policy states that he is entitled to up to 100 days of extended care per calendar year in a skilled nursing facility.

But, because Gill's condition has been judged to be psychiatric in nature, his mental health services have been significantly curtailed, again because of the insurance plan itself. The policy states that such services are not provided if chronic organic brain damage exists.

Ms. Ross says Gill "has fallen into a bureaucratic crack." She says society's pendulum "has swung away from caring for these people."

Dr. Robert Love, chief of psychiatry at Kaiser in Redwood City, says he has known of only "one or two" other cases which are similar to Gill's. He says that when Gill was admitted to Kaiser early in 1976, Kaiser routinely looked upon anyone with a history of suicide attempts as needing psychiatric help.

Now, he says, Kaiser would probably view the Gill case as one involving chronic organic brain damage. And Kaiser, like other insurance programs, can't and won't handle such a case. The cost is too prohibitive.

Still, Love says, Kaiser authorities are going to review Gill's case to see if some kind of reasonable solution to permanent care for him can be reached.

Terry Behan, the public relations officer for the VA in Menlo Park, says the VA is ready to work with Kaiser to resolve the Gill case. He says the VA has been caring for Gill for several reasons.

Although Gill's condition is not service-related, Gill did spend a short period of time in the Army, says Behan. Hence, Gill is a veteran. "If a bed here is available," explains Behan, "he is eligible." And, since no one else will care for him, he has nowhere else to go.

Behan says the VA is currently looking for an appropriate nursing home for Gill.

Mrs. Gill says she is becoming desperate for an answer.

In a July 1978 letter to Kaiser, Mrs. Gill spelled out her situation as she saw it then:

"Since this tragedy happened in our lives, we have been pushed from pillar to post...I have been lucky in some respects. Some people have helped in our behalf, but nothing permanent (has been done). And that's what we need most of all. If I tell you that we no longer have friends you might not believe it. But it is so...I really don't know how much longer I can take this...I just don't want you to put us on a shelf and forget that we exist."

Robert Zimmerman, director of contract administration for Kaiser in Oakland, says Kaiser does not provide custodial care in cases like this one.

"This is a social problem," he says. "There is no way you can care for a person for 10 to 15 years." He says the costs would be too great.

Gene Taylor, executive director of the San Mateo County Medical Society, says insurance companies "don't like to underwrite chronic treatment."

Having a case involve an unsuccessful suicide attempt doesn't help, either.

There is even a serious question about whether or not the potential victim should be saved from himself at all.

In sorrow and frustration, Mrs. Gill has even thought the unthinkable on occasion. She has wondered if, perhaps, it might have been better for everyone — including the Gills' son and two daughters — if her husband had been successful on that January morning.

"Our system is designed to save life," says Dr. Richard L.evy, a San Mateo psychiatrist. Often, he says, a person seemingly intent on killing himself doesn't really want to at all.

In the case of Andrew Gill, for example, he had telephoned a friend minutes before he hanged himself, indicating that he may well have wanted to be saved after all.

Good morning, good cooks.

Have you noticed how everything tastes better outdoors? Well, the Italians have known this for centuries. They are in love with outdoor restaurants and patio dining.

This baked chicken has all the flavor of an Italian meal on a terrace overlooking the hills outside Florence. And yet it's as easy to prepare as any summer meal should be. Italian-style bread crumbs, which are already completely seasoned, give it the authentic flavor.

Three hours before cooking, the chicken is pricked all over with a fork and placed in a bowl with milk, salt and black pepper. This allows the flavors to penetrate.

When you're ready to cook, the Italian-style bread crumbs are combined with grated Parmesan in a plastic bag, and the pieces are dipped from the milk into the crumbs to coat thoroughly.

Then it's baked (this avoids messy frying) to a golden brown.

ITALIAN-STYLE BAKED PICNIC CHICKEN

2½ pounds chicken parts
1½ cups milk
1½ teaspoons salt
⅛ teaspoon ground black pepper
1½ cups Italian-style bread crumbs
½ cup grated Parmesan cheese
2 tablespoons oil

Pierce chicken all over with fork tines; place in a snug-fitting bowl. Combine the one and one-half cups milk, one and one-half teaspoons salt and one eighth teaspoon pepper; pour over chicken.

Cover and refrigerate for 3 hours, turning once. Preheat oven to 350-degrees. In a plastic bag combine bread crumbs and Parmesan cheese.

Place chicken, one piece at a time, in the plastic bag; shake to coat completely.

Place chicken pieces on a greased jelly roll pan or shallow baking pan. Sprinkle with olive oil. Bake until chicken is cooked through, crisp and browned. Serve at room temperature or hot.

Yield — 4 to 6 portions.

THE DIET CORNER

By Elise Gendar

Gone are the long, lazy and sometimes crazy days of summer — relaxing with a tall iced tea on the deck, sunning at the beach, reading that favorite book on a quiet afternoon, . . . and maybe not paying very much attention to your diet or your weight.

It's fall now, and rush, rush, rush — back to school, back to work, back to slim fall fashions and back to the fun of a busy social whirl full of parties.

And back to dieting.

Can you have both — a busy social life and a good weight loss every week? Can you resist all those irresistibles that face you at every social event?

Don't despair. You can be strong.

IN THE GENERAL excitement of fall doings, you've doubtless written many "to-do" lists. Here's one more — perhaps the most important of all. It'll help reinforce your dieting will power and allow you to go to any social occasion armed with practical tools for action.

Have something to eat before you leave for a party — tomato juice, a glass of skim milk, or any allowed snack on your diet. A full stomach is your best protection against impulse eating.

Rehearse a casual "no thank you" before the dinner party. Resolve is stronger when you've planned ahead.

DEVELOP THE fine art of conversation. Remember what your mother told you when you were a little kid — never talk with your mouth full.

Remove an offending candy dish on the coffee table to another place in the room. Who needs to be tempted so close at hand?

Notice how many (thin) others bypass dessert. Use them as an inspiration to you.

If your hostess insists that you must taste her wild and delicious dessert, take a small piece graciously. Then push it around your plate and leave it. No one, but no one, really notices what's left on your plate.

LEAVE THE buffet table as soon as you've chosen what to eat. Don't stand around talking, and nibbling.

Mendally okay all food before you eat it.

Get a good calorie book and look up the items that tempt you most at parties. Think of those triple-digit figures when confronted by the real thing.

Keep a mental picture of yourself in mind. It can help when nothing else can.

Don't test your will power. If it were so great, you wouldn't be dieting.

Be a gracious guest. Bring an appetizer or dessert for your hostess, one that you can have too.

Here is a recipe for one of each — hits every time.

SAUCY CLAM DIP

8 oz. plain yogurt
6 oz. minced clams
2 drops Tabasco sauce
1 drop lemon juice
Sprinkle of garlic powder
Sprinkle of onion powder
Sprinkle of paprika

Mix all ingredients together. Serve with fresh cut up vegetables.

FRUIT CUP SUPREME

1 cup unsweetened applesauce
1 cup crushed pineapple, in its own juice
½ cup frozen blueberries
1 small banana, sliced
¼ tsp. cinnamon
½ tsp. vanilla
1 envelope unflavored gelatin
plain yogurt for topping

Heat applesauce, add gelatin. Stir in remaining ingredients, except yogurt. Spoon into 6 sherbert dishes. Add a teaspoon of yogurt for topping.

County parks: always a wonderful visit

By ARVILLE FINACOM

It's always been somewhat aggravating for us who live in the Bay Area to find the "good weather," without morning fog and drizzle, comes in September and October, long after school has started and job and volunteer responsibilities pick up after vacation.

True, many businesses and industries offer employees vacations outside of summer, and some, even those with children in school, do take a week or two away from home at these less traditional times.

However, in the Bay Area, there is one thing that compensates for the timing of fall's good weather. There are plenty of close-by outdoor spots at which to enjoy it.

Have you visited one of the San Mateo County parks recently?

THE NEWEST developed area is San Pedro Park in Pacifica, about a mile inland from the Highway One and Linda Mar Boulevard intersection. Recently cut trails lead one through a surprisingly remote and peaceful area made exceptionally colorful now with the vivid reds of off-trail poison oak.

Coyote Point, located centrally at the bay edge of the city of San Mateo, is perhaps the best known in the county park system. It offers a sandy beach along the bay where wading is quite popular, picnic areas, fishing off the breakwater, a large grass playfield and a planned children's playground along with a small natural history museum open daily except Mondays.

Wunderlich Park, off Woodside Road, is less well known and far less developed although there are hiking and equestrian trails leading from the valley floor almost to the crest of the Coast Range.

Here, as in San Pedro Park, San Mateo County park officials plan to remove the introduced eucalyptus and restore the redwood/Douglas fir forests that clothed coastal hills in pre-logging days.

Beyond San Mateo County, but still in the immediate Bay Area are a number of other interesting outdoor places to visit inexpensively. Among these several enids in the East Bay Regional Park System stand out.

ONE OF MY favorites is Coyote Hills Regional Park, a few miles south of Hayward, reached easily by following Hesperian Boulevard south from Highway 92 once one has crossed the San Mateo/Hayward Bridge.

At Coyote Hills, one finds hiking and biking trails, a "living laboratory" freshwater marsh, red rock hills to climb, a restored Indian Village to visit, friendly rangers to chat with, and picnic grounds waiting to be used. There are always on-going projects at Coyote Hills.

The Indian village close to the authentic archeological site is rebuilt periodically with the help of visitor volunteers.

This summer's major project was the building of a tule reed canoe similar to ones used by early Indians to paddle around the Bay.

NATURALIST JAN Southworth, who directed visitors on several weekends in the building of the 20 foot craft, plans to paddle it across the south end of the bay at summer's end.

If you do go to Coyote Hills, plan to visit as well the new Department of the Interior, Fish and Wildlife Service Interpretive Center for the San Francisco Bay National Wildlife Refuge at the eastern end of the Dumbarton Bridge.

The new building, opened to the public in mid-August and open daily Wednesdays through Sundays, 10 to 5, houses a traveling exhibit from the Smithsonian Institution, "Our Only World," and an intriguing display of black and white photos by Ken Gardiner of Menlo Park whose specialty is photographing marsh and shore birds in their natural environments.

An easy one-mile loop trail leads from the visitor center to the edge of Newark Slough and is the beginning of a projected access system within the 23,000 - acre refuge which will include eventually boardwalks, marked boat trails, bike and hike routes along the many dikes plus photographic blinds.

BEGINNING the weekend after Labor Day, there will be short Saturday and Sunday ranger-led walks at 11 a.m. and 2 p.m. Call 792-3178 for recorded information.

When construction is finished on the new high level Dumbarton Bridge, the ramp ends of the old one will become fishing piers within the refuge. These also will offer walking access to viewing spots along the deep water channel where comorants and pelicans dive for food and harbor seals and their pups are a common sight.

Fish and Wildlife Service rangers hope that when "development" is completed, visitors will be able to experience easily the nine major habitats found within the refuge and judge for themselves the importance of each to the continuing ecological health of the South Bay region.

At the other end of San Francisco Bay, creating the channel between it and San Pablo Bay lies Point Pinole on the eastern shore and Point San Pedro on the west. Both points are now incorporated into park systems preserving their rugged and distinctive features for the appreciation of all.

POINT PINOLE, which was until quite recently an area where explosives were manufactured, is part of the East Bay Regional Park District. Its southwestern beach is strewn with sea lettuce, clam shells and the bodies of rock crabs. Its northwestern shore has a sandy cove.

Between lies the rocky headland of the point itself with salt marshes and sloughs edging the shore wherever bay currents ease into lazy backwaters.

A somewhat level trail, approximately a four-mile bike ride, hike or run, circles the point. EBRPD also operates a shuttle from the park entrance to the new concrete fishing pier at the tip of the headland. No fishing license is required.

China Camp State Park, almost directly across the channel in Marin County may one day be a fascinating link in the California State Park System's "Living History" chain. Shrimp are still taken commercially off the tiny cove where ramshackle board buildings supported by rotting pilings jut out over the water.

Perspective

Sam Chandler

"To tax and to please, no more than to love and to be wise, is not given to men."

Thus spoke the economist, Edmund Burke during a taxpayers' revolt that led to the American Revolution. Two hundred years later in the wake of another taxpayers' revolt, a twentieth century economist echoes Burke's sentiments and adds some words of wisdom.

In a recent address John Kenneth Galbraith, the noted Harvard philosopher, pointed out that the revolt that led to Proposition 13 in California derives from the fact that the people who pay the most taxes and the people who depend on public services are not the same.

"TAXES IN industrial countries are paid in greatest absolute amount by people of middle income and above. And public services are most used by the poor," he said.

"The affluent have access to private schools and colleges; the less affluent need public education. . . The rich can buy books, and the merely affluent can buy paperbacks. People on a tight budget — or their children — go to the public library."

Speaking to the American Library Association, Dr. Galbraith observed that under Proposition 13 two-thirds of the tax saving accrued to individual corporations and large property owners, yet the services curtailed have their heaviest impact on city dwellers of the lowest income.

He called the tendency of the tax revolt to label government spending as somehow in conflict with liberty a "spurious disguise." Speaking of the nature of public services, Galbraith said, "They are neither less nor more damaging to freedom than private services. Clean water to drink is as important as clean houses or clean clothes. Good schools for the young are as important as good television sets. Can anyone really believe that freedom suffers when the garbage is cleaned up or the schools improved?

"The entire experience of civilized societies is that good schools, good health, safe streets, good law enforcement, are not only consistent with liberty but enlarge it. . . ."

To government workers Galbraith offered some basic rules for public service of the highest quality: ". . . Public services are not, in any respect, inferior to private goods and services. For example, public libraries are not less virtuous than private libraries. . . .

". . . Let all be clear that many of the most nearly essential services of modern society must be decided upon collectively. There is now a largely unchallenged argument that . . . public decision is as inimical to liberty as private decision is not. That is utter nonsense. . . ."

GALBRAITH'S third basic point called for greatly increased political sophistication and action by public servants on the questions of inflation and others of national interest.

Galbraith called for a large and regular reallocation of federal funds for local uses. "To seek federal support," he declared, "is not a sign of weakness."

Moreover he called for "a far greater response than in the past to generalized attacks on public service and public servants."

Galbraith also stated his belief that public servants have to be better (more efficient) than private employees because they are so much more visible. "Therefore, all public management must involve a relentless search for better performance."

A critic who reviewed the Galbraith statement said that it leaves no doubt that this country needs a new mood toward professional government service.

What to look for when examining pets

By DR. DAVID R. BARNETT

Question: I find it interesting when you discuss the step-by-step procedures that veterinarians use when examining pets. What are some of the other things that you look for During a complete pet physical examination? (H.M.

Answer: During an examination, a veterinarian can spot any abnormalities of the pelvis by observing the pet's "gait" or walk.

Using his sense of touch, he will then examine the pet's neck, backbone and tail. The fleshy fat covering these areas and muscle tone will be evaluated as part of the screening process.

The veterinarian will then feel the abdomen for any excess fluids, gas or tumors. The spleen, bladder, kidneys, intestines and liver will also be evaluated.

Enlarged organs also will be detected in the initial screening. An enlarged prostate gland of the male dog or an enlarged uterus of the female may be detected as part of the abdominal cavity screening examination.

A STETHOSCOPE will be used to evaluate the heart. Any abnormal sounds or beats may result in the need for additional tests. Among these additional tests are radiographs or x-rays and electrocardiograms (ECG).

Radiographs and x-rays are helpful and important diagnostic tools. As a matter of record, the American Animal Hospital Association not only requires that its members have a separate facility for radiology, but that they produce high-quality x-ray films or radiographs.

The quality is checked by a routine on-site evaluation by field representatives who also gather samples for review by a special AAHA board.

BOTH DOGS and cats have sacs on each side of the anal opening which may become enlarged or infected — these will be examined.

"Sleigh rides" or scooting generally indicate an anal sac problem. Fortunately, the problem is usually treated quickly by a veterinarian, who will provide the corrective therapy or recommend a treatment program.

The possibility of tumors that are common to this area also will be checked.

Against — Victor Calvo, D-Mountain View/San Mateo County; Leo McCarthy, D-San Francisco/San Mateo County.

Busing — By a 23-15 vote, with 27 votes needed, the Senate defeated SB1244 by Sen. Alan Robbins, D-Van Nuys, aimed at raising an additional legal barrier to school desegregation orders. Robbins said he would seek another vote later.

Your Little Sister?

Lisa, a cute 10-year-old, lives in Brisbane with her mother and 2 brothers, age 11 and 15. Lisa's mother is divorced from her father whom Lisa misses very much. She is very attached to her father and wishes she could see him more often but can't because he is in prison. Her mother works long hours in order to make ends meet and does not have as much time as she would like to spend with Lisa.

Lisa would enjoy the steady company of a Big Sister — a person she could talk to about things she can't talk over with her mother or her brothers — a person she could trust with her most private thoughts. . . .

Horseback riding, root-beer floats and babysitting little children are favorites with Lisa. She also likes dancing — disco, ballet, and jazz — because "it takes me into another world molded just the way I've always dreamed".

Cheryl Ladd on Charlie's Angels is her idol and she would love to meet her some day. Lisa is a good student and will be going into the fourth grade this fall. She doesn't really enjoy school because "I don't like my teacher and don't fit in with the other kids".

Lisa is eagerly looking forward to finding a Big Sister and has lots of ideas of how they can spend good times together. If you have time to spend with Lisa, or if you know of someone who does, please contact Big Sisters of the Peninsula at 343-4600. Big Sisters of the Peninsula, Inc., is privately funded, non-profit agency. It is a preventive program that offers guidance and support to children and teen-agers through a one to one, long-term relationship with a volunteer woman.

To celebrate our change of scene, we'll cross your palm with a little green.

The San Mateo Branch of United California Bank is packing up and moving across the street to a newer and bigger home.
And you're invited to the housewarming party.
Opening week is September 7-14, 1979, and everyone who crosses the threshold gets a free plant.

Get a free 512 page Sunset Garden Book.

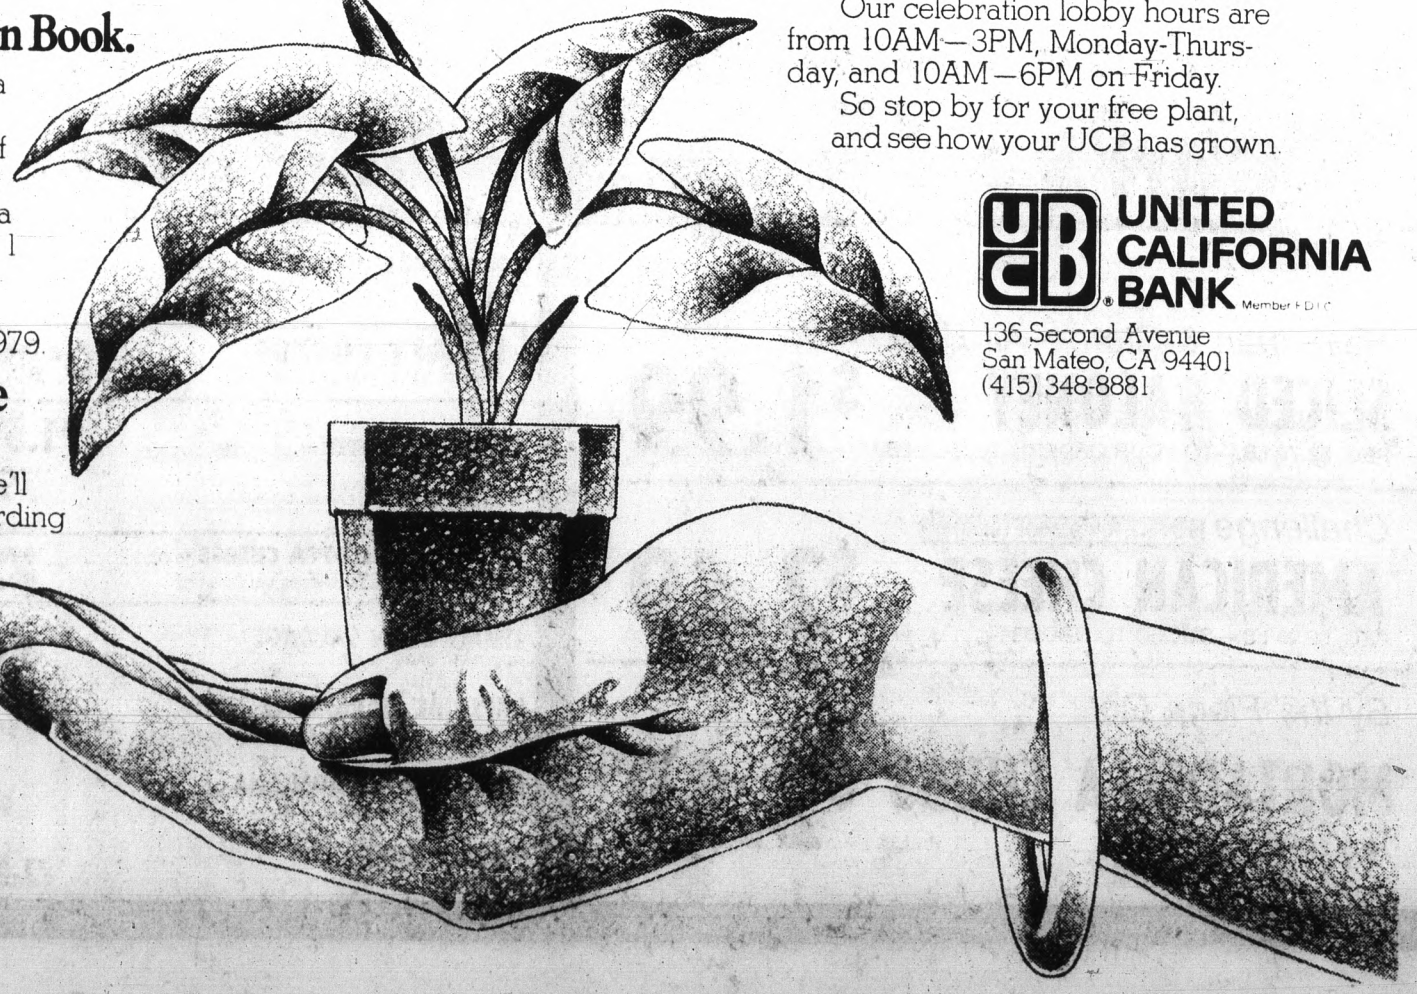

All you have to do is open a UCB Regular Savings Account with a minimum of $200, or a UCB Personal Checking Account with a minimum of $50. Limit: 1 premium per family per year. Offer good through October 12, 1979.

Enter our Grand Prize Drawing.

On Friday, September 14, at 5PM, we'll be giving away an RCA Video Tape Recording Machine. You needn't be present to win. And you have all week to register, but must be at least 18 years old.

Come see our new place.

There's plenty of parking, two new drive-up windows, open from 9AM to 5PM, Monday through Thursday and Friday to 6PM. And a new Day and Night Teller, for 24 hour banking.
Our celebration lobby hours are from 10AM—3PM, Monday-Thursday, and 10AM—6PM on Friday.
So stop by for your free plant, and see how your UCB has grown.

Contest Rules

1. Select the winner of each game by placing an "X" in the box on the margin side of the team you think will win. If you predict that the game will end in a tie, place an "X" only in the column headed "Ties" between the two teams. If the game ends in a tie, credit will be given only to contestants who predict the tie.
2. Write the total net yards (rushing and passing) that you think the designated team will make in the box provided. This estimate will be used only in case of ties between two or more contestants.
3. Clip and mail the entry blank to:

FOOTBALL CONTEST
San Mateo Times
P.O. Box 5400
San Mateo, Calif. 94402

4. Entries must be postmarked prior to midnight Thursday of this week or delivered to The Times prior to 5:30 p.m. Thursday of this week. The Times is not responsible for entries lost, delayed or destroyed or which fail to reach The Times by 9:30 a.m. on Saturday.
5. A $25 cash prize will be awarded to the best entry submitted each week. An additional $25 will be awarded if the best entry is submitted by a Times subscriber or the contrast indicates immediate home delivery of The Times is wanted. In the event a winner cannot be determined by use of a tie-breaker, the prize money will be divided equally among the eligible contestants who tied for the week's best entry. Check the appropriate box at the bottom of the entry form to become eligible for the additional $25.
6. A $100 cash prize will be awarded to a Times subscriber, or contrast, who indicates immediate home delivery of The Times is wanted, who selects all 15 games correctly. In the event two or more entrants select all 15 games correctly, the tie-breaker will not be used. Instead, the $100 cash prize will be divided among all of the eligible contrasts who selected all 15 games correctly. Check the appropriate box at the bottom of the entry form to become eligible for the $100 cash prize.
7. Cash prizes will be payable only to the contestant identified on the entry blank. Winning contestants will be required to show identification.
8. Number of entries from one household is limited to three (3) including only one (1) facsimile of the official entry blank permitted per household. Submission of more than three entries or one facsimile will render all facsimiles submitted by that contestant void.
9. Entries may be attached to a postcard, mailed in an envelope or delivered by hand to the San Mateo, Redwood City or South San Francisco office of Amphlett Printing Company's publications — The Times, The Post, San Bruno Herald, Recorder-Progress, The Coastside Chronicle and the Daily City Herald.
10. Anyone may enter the contest except employees of The Times and their immediate families.
11. The decision of the judges is final. All contestants agree to abide by the judges' decisions. All entries become the property of The Times, no answers may be returned. The Times reserves the right to correct any typographical errors in the entry blank which affect the outcome of the contest. Answers to the contest or winners' name will NOT be given out over the phone. Winners will be notified by The Times.

Objectivity the key to sports reporting

Le Pacini

If you haven't been reading about the controversy surrounding the so-called "media" and the Giants, you don't read; and if you haven't formed an opinion on the subject, you're not a true fan.

What the controversy has done to me personally is elicit questions from readers and/or friends as to my thoughts on the matter, and caused me to do some hard thinking about my own writing and reporting philosophy.

My thoughts on the specific matter in question are simple.

Just assume that writers and athletes are no different than the general population. Each side has its fair share of jackasses and good guys. Any mixing of the two entities can cause a controversy. Sometimes, surprisingly, even good guys on each "side" will mix wrong, causing misunderstandings and consequent controversy.

The question of writing and reporting philosophy is not nearly as easy for me to answer, because as a columnist I am not involved in the day-to-day coverage of games, nor, except for rare forays into the pit of the arena, have I been since I started doing weekly sports columns in 1953. I also have written hundreds of articles for other periodicals, but they have all been feature-type pieces, so I am not truly well qualified to make judgments on the operations of day-to-day reporters.

I can, however, tell you know I have operated on the occasions when I have covered the reporting of games as such, and how I work as a columnist and feature writer in dealing with athletes.

I believe that the job of a reporter is to do exactly what the title implies — report what has happened as accurately and as objectively (fully realizing that there is no such thing as total objectivity if one isn't a robot) as possible. If a good job of pure reporting is done, the reader will then be able to draw his own conclusions.

Simple example: If an infielder makes three errors letting in three runs, it's obvious that he had a bad day personalli and a costly day for the club. The writer's job is to tell of the errors and the consequences of them. That is reporting.

He doesn't say, "Smith looked terrible today and screwed the team up." That is judging. By the same token, if a player hits three homeruns and single-handedly wins the game, there is no reason why the reporter should feel impelled to heap on superlatives, such as "fantastic performance." It is obvious that the player did something extraordinary.

Now, it's certainly within the writer's venue to report mitigating circumstances, if it is apparent that those circumstances affected the player's performance.

Perhaps the infielder who made three errors was playing with a sore throwing hand but was forced into action because of other injuries on the team. Again, though, the writer doesn't have to say, "Smith looked so bad because he had a sore hand, poor baby." He merely had to report that, "Smith, forced to play with a sore throwing hand, committed three throwing errors."

If, however, the infielder let three ground balls go through his legs, it would be obvious to the reader that the sore hand had nothing to do with the errors, and the writer wouldn't have to point that out.

Then comes the question of where a writer draws the line on reportage of an athlete's personal life. That, it seems to me, is an easy one. An athlete's personal life is no business of a writer's or a fan's unless the athlete volunteers such information, or unless an athlete's off-field behavior is affecting his on-field performance.

In the latter case he is fair game because he is then cheating the well-paying public. This, of course, would pertain only to professional athletes. I will leave it up to you to determine who the pure amateurs are in this country.

One of the nagging problems is the continual claims by athletes that they have been misquoted. This gets complicated.

Sometimes they will say something in the heat of the moment and literally not realize it, or forget it, and are thus sincere when they say they never said it. Many times they don't even really mean what they say, and we've all experienced that. ("Martha, some day I'm going to kill you!")

Sometimes athletes will, in what they believe to be a casual conversation with a reporter, say something, not realizing they are "on the record." What they feel were confidential observations turn up in print and are embarrassing, so, in defense, they deny the quote.

Occasionally an athlete will say something kiddingly, perhaps make an apparently nasty remark with a smile on his face, a tongue in his cheek. The reporter prints it literally, and, of course, it doesn't translate well in print.

Sometimes the writer does this realizing full well that the "joke" will not appear as such in print. He is taking advantage of the athlete's good nature to get a senational quote. Sometimes the writer will understand the joke perfectly and sincerely not be trying to embarrass anyone by printing it, but doesn't have the skill to pull it off with just the proper nuance to report it exactly in the spirit in which it was intended.

And sometimes a new reporter just may not understand the athlete's sense of humor and take him seriously, thinking he has a wonderful scoop.

A writer can help an athlete to avoid these pitfalls without abrogating his duties as a reporter. He can give the athlete an opportunity to "cool off" after a tough game so that he has a chance to answer questions rationally. This protects the writer as well as the athlete, who then cannot claim he was taken advantage of.

If the "cooling off" period interferes with the reporter's deadline, well, that's too bad. It's a matter not of being fair just to an athlete, but of being fair to a human being, and of being fair to the reading peblic, making sure that they do not view a distorted picture. The spoken word hits the air and is gone forever. The written word becomes a permanent part of history, and can affect a person's life.

The writer should always tell the athlete that he's on the tape, or on the record. If an athlete pops off after he has been forwarned, then it's his responsibility.

Hint for athletes: Never say anything around a reporter at any time that you wouldn't want to see in print.

My personal stance is that I never presume to know more or even nearly as much about a sport as the athlete or people who run the teams. I have opinions and can make suggestions because I have the right of free speech, but I can no more tell them how they should play or run their teams than I would want them to tell me how to write.

One can learn only when he realizes that he doesn't know a helluva lot. When you know it all, your growth stops.

And finally, when a writer imposes his personality on his reportage, becomes the star of his own stories, then he is no longer a reporter. He should hire an agent and go into show biz.

Get to know our new teller. It'll pay off.

The bank that never closes has an open invitation for you. Now that United California Bank has a Day and Night Teller Machine,® we thought you should know how to use it. We'll be demonstrating how to handle our new teller from 10AM to 3PM Monday through Thursday and 10AM to 6PM Friday, now through September 14, 1979.

Everyone who meets our new teller has a chance to win money. For this demonstration period only, you'll be trying out our new Day and Night Teller with play money. But check the money from your demonstration withdrawal because we may have mixed in some real cash.

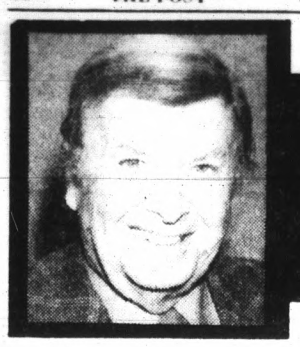

You don't even have to bank with UCB to play, or win. We want to show everyone in San Mateo just how easy it is to bank with our new teller.

It'll pay off even after this demonstration period is over. You can get cash from your UCB checking or savings account, make deposits, transfer funds from your checking to savings or vice versa, or make a loan or credit card payment, anytime you please, day or night. Just by inserting your UCB Western Bancard® and pushing the buttons.

So come on by now through September 14, 1979, and take a chance at winning some cash. Whether you win or not, just meeting our new Day and Night Teller is sure to pay off.

BRIGHT LIGHTS BY LLOYD ★ JOHNSON

Romano's robust Italian cuisine

Many who thrill to the spectacular scenery and the tangy sea air of the coastside also look forward to enjoying the robust Italian food at ROMANO'S restaurant at Rockaway Beach, Pacifica. If you're planning a picnic on the beach, it's good to know that anything on the menu can be prepared to take out ... Dessert is an exciting event at PHIL LEHR'S award-winning Pay-By-Ounce Steakery, on the lower level of the S.F. Hilton Tower. You can choose from toothsome treats like Fresh Strawberries Jubilee (now in season), Flaming Crepes Suzette, and Phil's Peach Pernod and Pear Amaretto ... As you enter the sophisticated new LA POTINIERE French restaurant, on the second level in the arcade complex known as "The Theater" in downtown San Mateo, you realize there is something different about the service. To assure prompt and proper attention in an unhurried atmosphere, Owner ROGER NICOLAS says that lunch and dinner are by reservations only ... If you're among many who remember the quaint old CYPRESS HOUSE restaurant in Half Moon Bay but haven't been there for a long time, you owe it to yourself to check it out. Open for dinner seven days .... Popular luncheon combos at the BAYHILL LOUNGE in San Bruno are soup-and-salad or soup-and-sandwich. A different home made soup is featured each day. Lunch served from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m.

HIBACHI STYLE

Tillie's special Sunday breakfast

Sunday mornings are something special at TILLIE'S 'LIL' FRANKFURT, a cozy little German and continental restaurant in Moss Beach. Many of TILLIE SCHOLTZ' customers come from distant points just to enjoy her special Sunday breakfast, which is only $2.50. It's something different every week, but always home-cooked with care by Tillie herself ... LEHR'S CABARET DISCO, one of San Francisco's most glamorous and exciting night spots, is available for club and company parties, receptions and dances on Sunday, Monday and Thursday evenings. The choice of music is yours — anything from Benny Goodman to the Bee Gees — and you can start your evening with a superb dinner in a beautiful garden in full bloom in the adjoining LEHR'S GREENHOUSE ... Good news: ROBERT and CLAUDETTE MERLET are back from vacation and their GARE SAINT LAZARE restaurant, located in the Broadway Burlingame SP Railroad Station, is again serving delectable French food. Announcement: The Merlets will be serving dinners on Sundays, also ... The daily luncheon special at VINCE'S ITALIAN and SEAFOOD restaurant on Fridays is Baked Fish. Served Mondays through Fridays, 11 a.m. to 2 p.m., luncheon specials include a choice of clam chowder or minestrone soup or luncheon salad (French dressing) and coffee. ... When you visit NICK'S famous restaurant at Rockaway Beach, Pacifica, you actually have three great restaurants to choose from — THE MOONRACKER for continental cuisine, CAPTAIN CHARLES for gourmet seafood, and NICK'S for steaks, seafood and Italian specialties, plus dancing Wednesdays through Sundays to the smooth rhythms of JIMMY PAYER. All owned/operated by NICK and LORRAINE GUST and son CHUCK.

Alfredo's discount for anyone over 65

Word is spreading fast among senior citizens about the considerate offer of 10 percent discount on any regular menu item every day (including Sunday) at ALFREDO'S restaurant in downtown San Mateo. Anyone over 65 is invited to come in and get a discount card. Open seven days a week serving breakfast, lunch and dinner ... If you're entertaining out-of-town guests over the weekend, treat them to dinner at ROSEBUD'S ENGLISH PUB, the showplace restaurant in the heart of San Francisco's glittering Geary Street "Theater Row" ... Jumbo shrimp, crab cocktail, barbecued spare ribs, sauteed scampi, onion soup and chilled tomato juice are all listed under "pantry and tureen" on the varied menu at SCOTTY CAMPBELL'S in Redwood City ... The complimentary hors d'oeuvres served during the cocktail hour at LA PINATA Mexican restaurant in Burlingame are so delicious that you are invited to go back for seconds ... Part of the informality at JOHN'S PLACE, the "working man's bar" is downtown Burlingame, is exemplified by the blackboard above the backbar, on which the menu offerings are chalked up each day ... Famed football coach Bill Walsh of the S.F. 49ers was seen relaxing in the ambience of DAL BAFFO European restaurant in Menlo Park, the other evening. He enjoyed his favorite dishes as prepared by master chef/owner VINCENZO LO GRASSO. Charming CATHERINE ("Cathy") LO GRASSO doesn't recall whether there were any mysterious little marks or diagrams on the tablecloth that might have been football plays ... Handsome TONY ORLANDO entertains audiences in the Headliner Room of HARRAH'S RENO with a bountiful repertoire of hits, including "Tie A Yellow Ribbon" and "My Sweet Gypsy Rose." Comedian KIP ADDOTTA opens the two shows through Sept. 16.

OPENS OFFICE
Congressman Bill Royer and Anna Ohlendorf

Congressman opens North County office

Congressman Bill Royer, R-San Mateo County, has announced the opening of a North San Mateo County 11th Congressional District Office, and the appointment of Daly City resident Anna Ohlendorf to his staff.

"I'm pleased to have opened an office in Daly City Tuesday," Royer said. "I'm even happier that recently retired, longtime Daly City Clerk Anna Ohlendorf will staff it."

The office is located at the City Hall, Daly City, and will be open Monday through Thursday from 1 to 5 p.m. (On Fridays the office is utilized by San Mateo County Supervisor Fred Lyon.)

The address is 90th street and Sullivan Avenue, Daly City 94015, telephone 992-4500.

"The importance of establishing a small congressional office which could serve the needs of the northernmost part of the County has often been expressed," Royer stated.

"I believe Anna Ohlendorf is a superb public servant and will more than adequately do the job in assisting north county residents to resolve whatever problems or questions they may have concerning the federal government. I hope constituents will take advantage of the services provided by this new office as well as by my existing office in San Mateo," Royer concluded.

Royer now has two San Mateo County District Offices. His main office is located at 2121 S. El Camino Real, Suite 410, San Mateo, telephone 349-1978.

Back to school

Lovanne Heath

Farewell summer days — its back to school today — maybe.

It is a certainty that the Holy Angels Parish School will be back in business this morning with first graders and mothers having an orientation session at 10 a.m. The moms will be enjoying a late breakfast, courtesy of the Holy Angels Women's Guild, while the children are learning all about their new school.

* * *

From first graders to high school and college students, moms continue to play an important role in maintaining school standards and providing support services for schools.

Friday afternoon, it will be the members of the Loyola Guild who will meet and listen as the president of the University of San Francisco, the Rev. John Lo Shavio, S.J., speaks.

Women whose families are affiliated with the university or with St. Ignatius Preparatory School are encouraged to attend this meeting of the guild at 1:45 p.m. in the University Center on the university campus, 2130 Fulton St., San Francisco.

Cold sliced beef, turkey and ham, salads and rolls, cookies and coffee all will be on the American Association of Retired persons, chapter 1541 (AARP), picnic menu, according to Servant Ojakian, publicity chairperson for the group.

The picnic scheduled for next tuesday at the Coyote Point group picnic area, will be a reservations- only event and anyone not yet having a ticket should contact President Milton Locke immediately about tickets and car pools.

Persons going to the picnic are urged to remember to bring their own silverware and to arrive at the picnic area at 10:30 a.m.

Tuesday's outing is the first of four major events planned for the fall. On Sept. 30, a Hawaiian tour and on Oct. 15, tour chairman Doris Johnson has arranged for a trip to Reno. A Bay Tour Cruise is slated for Oct. 26.

Persons wishing to go on the Reno junket are asked to make their reservations now as space is limited.

A Reno trip is in the offing for members of the Mary's Help Hospital Guild.

Members interested in the Sept. 18 and 19 visit to the bright lights of Nevada's "biggest little town" are asked to contact tour chairman, Mrs. Virginia Stanghellini. Cost of the trip will be $36.50 per person.

Mrs. Lorraine Van Krakau Berto is making one last effort to locate persons who graduated from San Francisco's Balboa High School in June of 1939.

The class is planning a fortieth reunion on Sept. 29 and time is running out for reservations applications.

The event will be in the South San Francisco Elks Club and a big turnout is expected. If you are a class member, or know the whereabouts of a person who was graduated with that class, contact Mrs. Emily Sumrall in San Francisco or write to the alumni office, 1000 Cayuga St., San Francisco, 94112.

Seating is limited to only 100 persons per showing, so if you are planning to enjoy a bit of fashion nostalgia at the first anniversary party of the Museum of Vintage Fashion in Oakland on Sept. 13 you had best move quickly to secure tickets.

This event is of special interest to localites because former Daly City Chorus director, Patti Parks Stoltz McClain, is the moving force behind the establishment and maintenance of this museum.

Cost of tickets for the party is $5 per person and that price includes the show, featuring the private collection of hats belonging to Claire Masters, associate curator of the museum, and a salad bar and wine lunch.

For ticket information contact the museum.

Parents! Your child's first job could make a difference!

Look around. Some of the most successful people you know were once newspaper carriers! There's a good reason for that. Being a carrier is more than a first job . . . it's an unforgettable learning experience. It teaches young people how to use their time wisely . . . to handle money . . . to deal with different kinds of people. It gives them feelings of confidence, pride and accomplishment for handling an important responsibility reliably and well. And what's more, it's fun! Carriers get the chance to win great prizes and exciting trips and share experiences with other young people their own age. So why not talk to your son or daughter about becoming a newspaper carrier? A small part of each day can make the difference of a lifetime.

Tryouts begin

Tryouts for a number of plays scheduled on the Peninsula and at UC-Berkeley in the coming months have been announced.

At Canada College, auditions for "Cat Among the Pigeons," the first of three plays to be presented during the fall semester, will be held Wednesday and Thursday from 7 to 10 p.m. and Friday from 4 to 7 p.m. in the college's Flexible Theater.

The Georges Feydeau comedy of love and mistaken identities is scheduled for October performances and calls for a cast of 10 men and seven women in addition to extras. Vonya Morris is the director. For scripts and more information, call the college humanities division.

Auditions for Skyline College's production of "Blithe Spirit" will be held Sept. 11 and 13 at the Studio Theater, Building 1, from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m. There will also be an audition from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. Sept. 11 in Room 1133 of the same building.

The Noel Coward farce will require a cast of five women and two men and a production staff and will be performed in October and November. Those auditioning must present a monologue of 1 to 4 minutes in length. For more information, contact Josie Buelow at the college.

The Pacifica Spindrift Players will have tryouts at the Pacifica Library in Pacifica for Roberta Grant Ewald's original drama with music, "The Wanderers." It's a love story of a Swedish couple and their emigration to the United States in the early 1900s.

Some of the roles call for vocal solos, and children from 4 to 10 years of age who sing and dance will also be cast.

Tryouts are scheduled Sept. 16 from 1 to 4 p.m., and Sept. 18 and 20 from 7:30 to 10 p.m.

The University of California at Berkeley Deaprtment of Dramatic Art will commemorate the 45th anniversary of the death of Anton Chekhov by presenting his four major plays during the 1979-80 University Theater season as well as a bill of his one-act plays.

They will be presented in the new English versions of Jean-Claude van Itallie, whose work has been critically acclaimed. Tryouts for "The Seagull" and "Uncle Vanya" will be held in Zellerbach Playhouse during the week of Sept. 11. For tryout materials and information, call the Department of Dramatic Art.

Tryouts for the unusual — the very old and the very new — are scheduled at Hillbarn Theater, Foster City, for Tuesday at 8 p.m. in the Green Room of the theater.

Philoctetes (fie-lock-tay-tease) is an old Greek drama by Sophocles, and The Express Line is a new untried comedy by Tom Fitzpatrick III, of San Mateo. Both deal with matters of principle and will comprise a double bill, Hillbarn's second major production of the season, from Nov. 9 through Dec. 1, under the direction of Robert Brauns.

There are roles for two children.
